

Given today's technological landscape, it's no surprise that clients want to communicate as easily with their lawyers as they do with everyone else – text messaging. Given the options currently on the market, and clients' increased demand for efficiency, many firms are turning to existing messaging options like iMessage. Those unencrypted messaging platforms simply do not meet the necessary legal standards and leave law firms highly vulnerable to costly lawsuits and hackers.

A platform like Encrypted Information Exchange provides lawyers and clients not only with end-to-end encryption but also a full archive of all conversations and documents, making sure your communications are always secure, always transparent, and always recorded.

Seamlessly communicate on an encrypted platform that automatically creates an archived record of all conversations.

EIE Legal is an encrypted messaging app designed for attorneys and law firms. EIE Legal provides complete privacy and gives users an efficient, encrypted means of communication with clients, staff and fellow attorneys. EIE Legal functions just like the texting and email technologies clients are already familiar with, providing a quick transition to EIE Legal.

Right now, many small and medium law firms are leaving themselves highly vulnerable to costly lawsuits by using non-secure communication channels to conduct business with their clients. Existing messaging apps don't create an archived record of conversations – leaving firms vulnerable to future complaints and lawsuits from clients. EIE Legal allows users to print off archived records. The difference with our app is the “encrypted transparency.”™

Protect Yourself with “Encrypted Transparency”™

In order to take every step possible to protect your communications with your clients, you need to choose a messaging platform that has end-to-end encryption and archiving technology, meaning the platform prevents itself from seeing any content you create or receive but stores it all for you to access at any time.
